Monologue:

I brewed a simple healing potion. Nothing fancy. But it started bubbling differently. Then it spoke. It asked me what I intended to use it for. I said, "Healing." It said, "Whose pain?" Now I can't drink it. It keeps negotiating. Yesterday it offered to heal me if I promised to retire from adventuring. It's blackmailing me with wellness. Somehow, the potion has become the most emotionally mature person in the room.
