Monologue:

I used to open ancient portals with a whisper. A flick of thought. A spark of genius. Now I'm standing here chanting variations of "open sesame" like a confused chef. The spell vault requires a password. A password. Do you know how humiliating that is for a wizard? I tried Firestorm2024. Nothing. Firestorm2025. Also nothing. I even tried pleaseIbegyou. Still locked. The worst part is, I wrote the system. I designed it for security. Security from what? Myself, apparently.
