

5. The Last Voice Message

Genre: Drama

Age Range: 18-40

Length: 1 Minutes

Emotional Themes: Love, Regret, Longing

Scene Description

Someone listens to a saved voicemail over and over, unable to bring themselves to delete it.

Monologue

I know every word. Every pause. Every laugh. I've listened to this message so many times I could probably recite it in my sleep.

Most people save photos. I saved your voice, because voices disappear. Faces stay in pictures, but voices fade. And I wasn't ready for that. Sometimes I play it just to hear you say my name. It's ridiculous, isn't it? A grown adult sitting alone in a room listening to the same voicemail. But for thirty seconds... You're still here. For thirty seconds... Nothing happened. You're not gone, time hasn't moved, life hasn't changed. Then the message ends. And reality comes back.

And I have to lose you all over again..
